A GROWING NEWSPAPER IN A GROWING COMMUNITY

Vol. 52 Number6 | CAMPBELL, SANTA CLARA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA | Friday, December 27, 1946

with Betty Allen...

Well, it was a wonderful Christmas wasn't it? A lot of people bustled around and left town for family reunions elsewhere but all over Campbell was a strong odor of roasting turkey, the crackle of gift wrappings and the glow of Christmas tree lights.

Santa Claus was especially good to the Budd Levenbergs and brought them a radio-phonograph (it seems the Footlighters were helping Santa).

Mrs. Mae Greaves had something whipped up for her friends that was really pretty special—a fruit cake baked in a mold fashioned in the shape of a lamb. The lamb was then given a white "fur" frosting, made realistic by the addition of cocoanut, raisin eyes, a citrus fruit mouth and a red ribbon around his neck. It must break your heart to cut into him.

Every year the Campbell Water Co. displays the calendars received, and this year it was most impressive . . . one of the Monterey Coast that was especially lovely.

Did you see the Christmas play at the high school? Heard it was beautifully done and a most ambitious undertaking.

A public meeting has been called for tonight at the Town Hall in Los Gatos for the purpose of allowing residents of the area to discuss the proposed water conservation dam at Windy Point.

There are a lot of questions being asked about the Chamber of Commerce—since there was no quorum at last week's meeting when officers were to be nominated and elected and the present term of office has expired what happens to the Chamber and who calls a meeting?

A letter from Mrs. Ira Beal now living in Arivaca, Arizona, reports that she and her family like Arizona more and more although they miss their Campbell friends.

On the serious side: John Perusina of the sheriff's office who was instrumental in the discovery of Campbell's juvenile crime ring, says that Campbell is the worst spot in the county as far as juvenile delinquency is concerned. He has just returned from an F. B. I. course in the East and reports that more and more stress is being placed on preventive work by organizing constructive youth programs, preferably in the heart of trouble spots.

Item of interest—Berkeley Gilson, well-known Campbellite, has taken over the management of the Winchester Mystery House.

UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT TO ADDRESS ALUMNI

President Robert Gordon Sproul of the University of California will address Santa Clara County alumni on the post-war role of the State university at a breakfast meeting Jan. 5, at the Hotel De Anza, San Jose.

Touring the State for the first time since 1941, Sproul will be accompanied by two scientists from the University's Radiation laboratory, Dr. Luis Alvarez and Dr. Melvin Calvin, who will discuss the latest developments in the peacetime use of atomic energy.

President Sproul at present is in New York attending trustee meetings of the Carnegie and Rockefeller Foundations. The latter was largely responsible for financing the university's new cyclotron, unveiled at Berkeley last month—the most powerful atom-smasher in the world.

CELEBRATES 70th BIRTHDAY

Many old friends called at the E. C. Merrill home Sunday to offer congratulations to Mr. Merrill on the occasion of his 70th birthday. His daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Robinson, arrived from Merced with wild geese for the birthday dinner.

Future Of School Districts Discussed

The Thompson amendment to the Strayer Act for reorganization of California school districts was discussed at length by some 30 county school district officials meeting recently with Assemblyman Jack Thompon, author of the amendment, and State school authorities.

Under the amendment each individual district is permitted to have final say on joining unified districts which are due to be formed under a proposed reorganization program.

Present was Dr. Elmer H. Staffelbach, director of the organizational survey in this area, who told the group that Thompson's amendment weakens the Strayer Act and makes reorganization difficult.

Thompson, however, reported after the meeting that "Opinion of th group as a whole seemed to be in favor of the amendment." He said he had sponsored the change because he had been asked to do so by school district trustees in his 29th Assembly District.

Staffelbach claimed the amendment permit more prosperious districts to remain outside of unified districts to the detriment of poorer districts.

Trustees and administrators at the meeting were from the following districts: Campbell, Moreland, Union, Cambrian, Evergreen and Oak Grove. They met in the Cambrian Schoolhouse.

Eastern Star Xmas Program

Campbell Chapter No. 553, Order of the Eastern Star, met in regular session Friday, Dec. 20, with the new 1947 officers in their chairs. Under the able leadership of Worthy Matron Thelma Akers and Ray Martin, worthy patron, the new officers put on their work like veterans.

After the business meeting, the occasion was turned into a real Christmas party, with Evelyn Buck as chairman.

The program began with a community singing of Christmas carols, followed by a very enjoyable reading by Mrs. Rex Fuller.

The Rev. Osborne then sang a group of selections, appropriate to the Christmas season.

Refreshments, of which plum pudding was a feature on holly decked tables, were greatly enjoyed by all. The next meeting will be Jan. 3rd, 1947, beginning at 6 p. m. with a potluck supper.

Mrs. Stahancyk's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Del Franham, came to the ranch from Corvallis, Oregon, where he is attending Oregon State College.

Campbell High Downs Live Oak In Hoop League

By DAVE WOODS

December 20

Winning their second SCVAL game in a row the Campbell Bucaneer Varsity triumphed over the Live Oak Acorns in a game played last Friday at the local gym. The 130-pound quintet also came through to annex their first league win 19 to 9. The Varsity contest was in doubt only in the first quarter, after which Campbell, led by the Estrada boys, pulled ahead to become the victors. Mel and Lee Estrada paced the Buc scoring with 8 each, but Corsiglia, Villafuerte, Fish, Gazay and Gleed looked good as well. The Thirties had a tougher game leading only 817 as the fourth quarter began, but with Magginetti and Dayton leading the way they piled up their margin of victory. Season scoring records find Lee Estrada leading the heavyweights with 29, followed by Ray Fish's 26. The 30's are led by Magginetti and La Mar with 24 and 17 respectively.

Last Dec. 18 the hard fighting, but out-manned Campbell High hoop squads journeyed northward, only to drop a twin bill to the Burlingame Panthers. The Varsity contest was fairly close throughout and the Bucs trailed only 23-25 at the end of the third quarter, but a Burlingame spurt widened the margin to 36-27 as the game closed. Lee Estrada and Vic Corsiglia played outstanding ball for the Bucs as they tallied 11 and 8 points respectively while Ray Fish, Dick Villafuerte, Mel Estrada showed up well also. During the first half the 130-pound game appeared to be a breeze for the Panthers, but the determined Bucs fought back to the short end of an 18 to 17 count as the fourth quarter opened, only to lose out in the last period 25 to 20. Bill Magginetti, ace center, paced the locals with 7 digets, while Frank Shephard followed closely with 5.

Earl Buck Endorses Incorporation

"I feel that our community is bound to develop and, if we incorporate, we can guide that development ourselves," says Earl Buck, one of the candidates for City Council in the event the majority of voters decide to incorporate at the special election Jan. 23.

"It would surely be better to guide our future growth ourselves than to have it done by outsiders. I also feel," he said, "that if we incorporate we could have a definite program to combat youthful delinquency."

Earl Buck, who came here in 1940, has taken an active part in Boy Scout and church work. He is particularly interested in youth work and was instrumental in forming cub packs. He devotes much time to this work and serves as Cub Master for one of the packs.

In addition to this he is a member of the Masonic Lodge and the Eastern Star.

Before coming to Campbell, Buck was engaged in the metal work business with his father in Stockton. Until recently, he was employed at Permanente doing metal work; now he and his brother, Eugene Buck, are the new owners and operators of Buck Brothers, a structural steel business. They have already done several jobs in Campbell of which the new Post Office is one.

Buck feels that the first council, in the event of incorporation, must be a conservative one and must hold the expenses to a minimum, especially doing the first year until the regular revenues start arriving.

Scouts Hike To City Museums

By Dudley Herschbach
Scout Reporter

"Variety is the spice of life", and so Boy Scout Troop 36 undertook a hike to San Francisco last Sunday.

Instead of tramping around the woods the Scouts tramped around Fleishaker Zoo, Steinhart Aquarium, Simpson African Hall, the Academy of Scinece Natural History Museum and the M. H. De Young Memorial Museum.

The trip was planned as a change from the regular woods trips and also to commemorate the troop's fine showing at the recent Court of Honor. The troop won the Court of Honor attendance banner for the fourth consecutive time as well as receiving a large share of the other banners and awards presented.

Besides visiting the museums the Scouts enjoyed a weiner roast on the beach near Fleishaker Zoo and played a rough football game using a Scout hat, a towel, a pair of gloves, and a belt for the ball! Due to the nearly sub-zero weather and fog the boys built a huge fire on the beach to keep their Scoutmaster warm while they played football. (The game ended in a 6-6 tie.)

Most of the Scouts liked the gun and weapon display at the De Young Museum best. Some Tenderfoots however, were led to believe that the specimens in African Hall were alive and were ordered to watch the gorilla and to warn the Troop when he woke up —best of all—they fell for it!

CAMPBELL MAN BECOMES NEW YORK POLICEMAN

Richard Van Arsdell, former Campbellite, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Van Arsdell, recently graduated from the New York Police School in the 8th Regiment and was designated a "rookie" police officer in the New York City Police Department.

HOLIDAY IN SEATTLE

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Fields are spending the Christmas holidays in Seattle.

Juveniles Confess To Campbell Burglaries

Five Campbell boys ranging in age from 14 to 17 have confessed to several recent burglaries in the locality. The five did not work together but two or three, although not always the same two or three, of the group would work as accomplices. One boy of the five took part in only one "job" when he served as lookout for the Campbell Hardware Company burglary.

In addition to confessing the responsibility for the robbery of the Campbell Hardware Co., the boys admitted to the Thanksgiving Day theft at the Campbell Billiard Parlor, the attempted entry at the Blue Bell Cafe, and more than one entrance into the Cheerio Corner grocery store where they took wine and cigarettes. The boys also entered Maderis Food Center but were scared out before taking anything.

Although the boys were questioned concerning a recent illegal entry at the high school and the resultant theft of an electric drill and other equipment from the manual training shop, they denied this and the theft was later confessed by a group of 11 boys from Los Gatos.

Of the expensive loot taken from the Hardware Co. only one electric razor has been recovered. The boys claim that the other items were "swiped" from them.

Of the group, three attend school and the other two have been employed. All five are being held in the Dention Home awaiting hearing before the Juvenile Court. Responsible for the boys' discovery was John Perusina of the County Sheriff's Office who was assisted by the staff of the County night prowler car, Night Watchman Harry Evans of Campbell and the local constable.

The confessions of the boys clear up the many business house burglaries but leave unsolved the four or more recent house robberies in which jewelry, Christmas presents and other items were taken.

Veterans Clinic In Operation

The Veterans Administration has designated the mental hygiene clinic of San Jose Chapter, American Red Cross, as the official treatment center for diagnosis and treatment of emotional disturbances of veterans of this area, according to Red Cross Chapter Manager John O. Waltner.

"Army statistics show that the emotionally ill make up 43 per cent of the wars' casualties. A survey disclosed that no other agency here was able to meet this need at this time," said Joseph A. Bonacina, home service chairman, instrumental in setting up the program.

The clinic will be part of the program for veterans, and doctors, ministers, lawyers, other social workers and the families of veterans are invited to lse this service for any veteran needing professional assistance in his emotional problems. Appointment may be made by letter or by phoning Columbia 2068.

Director of the clinic is Kenneth V. Francis, psychiatrist and M. D. The psychiatric social workers, Miss Theresa Weitbenhoffer and Mrs. Allison Laurence, complete the team.

Campbell District Court Of Honor

With over 200 scout parents and friends looking on the semi-annual Campbell District Court of Honor was held Thursday evening, December 12, at the Campbell High School auditorium.

All of the Campbell District scout troops and cub packs took an active part in the ceremonies which featured a series of pantomine acts illustrating how scouting cubbing work.

The program was specially arranged by W. E. Robinson, assistant scout executive, and Laurance Hill, district committee chairman. Cambrian Troop 34 served as host troop.

The pantomine acts began with an explanation of cub scouting after each cub pack and its committeemen and den mothers were introduced. Boy scouting was then portrayed and each step in the advancement was shown and explained, beginning with Tenderfoot rank and working upward to scouting's highest honor, the Eagle Award.

Moreland Troop 36 again won the attendance banner with the largest percentage of parents and friends present. Troop 36 also received the greater advancement with three Second Class awards, one First Class Scout, 30 Merit Badges, one Life Scout and one Eagle Scout.

HONEST MAN FOUND

Diogenes, seeker of the honest man, can now blow out his lantern. The War Assets Administration has found him.

A San Francisco veteran wrote the metal sales division of WAA that he had not turned in a government telegraph sending-key he used on an outpost.

With the letter came a telegraph key—and a receipted bill of a San Francisco firm showing the ex-soldier had paid 98 cents for the replacement.

WAA officials didn't decide immediately what to do with the unchanneled "surplus" property.

CART Elects Officers For New Year

The Santa Clara County Agricultural Round Table, or as it is better known to its members, the "CART" is starting the fourth year of its existence. Its officers for 1947, who have just been elected will be Lewis W. Armstrong of Los Gatos, president; Albert M. Foster of San Jose, vice-president, and Harvy L. Hansen of San Jose, secretary.

The CART was organized three years ago in order to bring together all of those in Santa Clara County who served agriculture professionally, either from a Federal, State, County or Municipal basis. It has admirably served its purpose through bringing together these men for a monthly dinner and program at which the agricultural problems of the County have ben discussed. Cooperation among agencies serving agriculture has greatly improved as a result of this organization which has allowed the men to get better acquainted and to know the work of those in other agencies.

The membership scope has been broadened somewhat with the close of the war, but it still continues to a great extent, along the same lined and has an active membership.

Holiday Magazine Tells Of California

In a 3,000-word article illustrated with color and black-and-white photos, Author Don Eddy tells the prospective visitor to the region that he will be given a "sincere welcome" and will find "generous hospitality."

"You will find there more than vineyards and wineries," Eddy adds. "You will find friendliness and a wealth of romantic tradition."

The Curtis Publishing Company, which publishes Holiday, says that more than a million persons will see the story, entitled "California Wine Trails." The January issue went on sale December 18.

The article is part of a 30-page section devoted entirely to California. John Gunther, widely-known author and foreign correspondent, writes the lead story of the portfolio. His article, "California the Golden," takes the reader on a journey the length and breath of the state.

Gunther is the author of "Inside Europe, Inside Asia" and, more recently, "Inside Latin America." The January Holiday reveals that the initial portion of his forthcoming book, "Inside U. S. A.," is devoted to California.

Eddy's article on "America's most productive vineland," traces a journey leading north from Los Angeles 500 miles to the top of Mendocino and Butte counties. Along the twin routes of U. S. 101 and U. S. 99, and offshoots from them, lies the famed vineland of California, as hospitable as its European counterparts.

Eddy traces briefly the history of wine-making, and then goes into a description of its production

PRAYER FOR THE NEW YEAR

Let me be a friend, oh Lord,
Not once, but every day;
Let me smile and give a cheery word
As I journey along life's way.

Help me grievances to bear,
My temper let me mend,
Teach me to think of others
And help me be a friend.

When I am blue and skies are dark,
When my cares, above me, bend,
Let me help a weaker brother,
Let me, really, be a friend.

When my earthly work is over
And I no more a smile can send,
May they say these few words o'er me,
"She was ever a good friend."

As fast as labor and materials permit, this Company is rushing work on its vast $160,000,000 three-year expansion program in Northern and Central California.

Expenditures in 1946 will reach about $40,000,000. During 1947 and 1948 the number of dollars going to work should increase to $60,000,000 per year.

These improvements are like a giant yardstick measuring up the future. They give assurance of an unfailing supply of electricity for agricultural, industrial, commercial and home users.

The Book Mark

By Dudley Herschbach

The "Have you read this one yet?" book at the Campbell Library this week is "The Randolphs", by Dr. H. J. Eckenrode. "The Randolps" is a very thorough and complete "story of a Virginia family" written in a vigorous manner.

After filling in the family's Scottish and English backgrounds Dr. Eckenrode traces them to Turkey Island, Virginia, where William Randolph became the family's American founder.

The Randolphs soon entrenched themselves firmly in Virginia society and became, along with the Adamses and Lees, one of "the familys" in Virginia. The family was predominately masculine, and most of them became lawyers and statesmen. Among them were Peyton Randolph, first president of the Continental Congress; and Edmund Randolph, first attorney general, and second Secretary of State of the United States. Thomas Jefferson's mother was a Randolph.

The author contends that the American Revolution was due to political and economic causes, but the social history of the nation, especially in the aristocratic states such as Virginia, was effected as much or more than the political and economic life.

Although the book is concerned with the social side of American History, it also features chapters on "The Virginia of the Randolphs", and "Governors and Homes", as well as a keen analysis of the politics of the time.

In ending, the writer cleverly shows how the Randolphs, and other great American clans, dwindled in the democratic age, and states: "After that they vanished from the scene, leaving to others the burden and glory—or blame—of government."

AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE

PLANNING FERTILIZER PROGRAM

The late fall and winter season should suggest planning the fertilizer program to be followed by fruit growers for the 1947 crop, according to G. D. Worswick, Assistant Farm Advisor, Agricultural Extension Service.

Orchardists, if they have not already done so, will find shortages in some items. Perhaps an alternate choice may be made to effect the results required.

The nitrogenous fertilizer groups is a case in point. Ammonium sulphate, a delayed action form of nitrogen having an acid residue, has been in general use but it becoming increasingly difficult to obtain.

Ammonium nitrate, made up with delayed action nitrogen and the immediately available form may be successfully substituted, as may sodium nitrate, calcium nitrate, and anhydrons ammonia (NH3); the liquid gas form of nitrogen, which is distributed in the irrigating waters.

While it is preferable to use an acid form on high pH or alkaline soils, no damage may be expected from an alkaline product such as sodium nitrate, as it would require years of successive applications to equal the alkaline effects of only one application of lime.

Worswick points out that fruit growers and other users of commercial fertilizers will have to base their choice of material, first, on availability. The second consideration should be price or the cost per unit of the product to be purchased. Cost per unit is the amount paid for each unit of availability in relation to the price.

MAKING INCOME TAX REPORTS EASIER

Income tax time is just around the corner again with the first of the year approaching. California farmers who have kept good management records will find them especially valuable at this time.

Farmers all keep business papers and some kind of records for income tax purposes, but many overlook the value of god records from the management standpoint, according to Arthur Shultis, farm management specialist of the Agricultural Extension Service.

Extension from its very beginning has promoted self-kept records for farmers. Such a book as the California Farm Record Book kept up to date month by month requires little additional time in early January to obtain material for the federal farm schedule and personal income tax returns. The farmer with up-to-date records is well prepared to file his final return by January 15, the final date of his declaration of estimated tax for 1946 and payment of the tax in full.

It is not too early now to plan for better records and accounts for 1947. A free circular, Records and Accounts for California Farmers, by Arthur Shultis, is available at the Agricultural Extension Service, 201 Post Office Building, San Jose. It discusses basic principles and describes several types of records.

HOME MILK PRODUCTION CIRCULAR AVAILABLE

Home milk production is quite important during these times of rising costs. Information on the management of the family cow, feeds and feeding, selection of proper quarters to house the cow, pasteurizing of milk, and butter and cheese making can be obtained from a circular issued by the Agricultural Extension Service and entitled, "Home Milk Production" by G. E. Gordon. This information would also help family's to make a decision whether to own a cow or not.

M. S. Beckley, Assistant Farm Advisor, will be glad to help you with any further information you may wish along these lines. The Extension Service office is at 201 Post Office Building, San Jose, or you may call Columbia 3866.

ATTENTION TO SHOT HOLE AND PEACH BLIGHT

Shot hole fungus in apricots and blight in peaches should be receiving attention now, Farm Advisor L. C. Barnard tells us. In those orchards where little-leaf is a problem, zins sulfate can be applied along with the bordeaux mixture for the shot hole treatment.

Bordeaux mixture is the standard material for the shot hole borer, the farm advisor says. Some growers prefer the convenience of the ready-made patented copper sprays. The manufacturer's directions should be carefully followed in use of the latter. If zinc sulfate is added to the spray for little lead, Mr. Barnard recommends 10 to 15 pounds to 100 gallons of spray. Growers may contact the Agricultural Extension Service, 201 Post Office Building, San Jose, for further information regarding fall spraying. The telephone is Columbia 3866.

REPORT OF SANTA CLARA COUNTY 4-H CLUBS

Santa Clara County 4-H Club members earned a total of $3980 during the first 4-H Club project year, which is just ending, according to George D. Shambrook, Assistant Farm Advisor of the Agricultural Extension Service. This sum was totaled up by 51 4-H Clubbers, who successfully completed their 4-H project. The number of individual projects on record at the Agricultural Extension Service office totaled 57, and included projects in poultry, dairy, beef, sheep, swine, horses, vegetable gardening and home economics. The most popular project was the fat lamb project, with eight boys and girls raising lambs to market weight and exhibiting them at the County Fair where they sold them for an average of 48 cents per pound.

The project which provided the most interest as well as netting the individual club member the most profit was the baby beef project. During the past year seven club members raised fat steers to earn a profit of $2490. The outstanding steer was fed out by Jean Puppe, 12-year-old Coyote 4-H Club member. She sold her champion 1100 pound steer to the Gamberd Meat Company of San Jose for a dollar per pound.

The project which caused stiff competition between club members early in the year was the poultry breeding project. Club members who started this popular project were given 50-day-old chicks by the Santa Clara Hatchery. The boy or girl who showed the best gain with his chickens at the ned of 12 weeks was awarded a prize of 200 additional baby chicks by the same hatchery. The young 4-H Clubber who won this contest was 12-year-old Wayne Pearson, president of the Almaden Club.

Conrad Nagel, star of "State of the Union," in the role of Grant Matthews, presidential candidate in 1948, became famous on the New York stage in "The First Apple," "The Shining Hour," and as co-star with Alice Brady in "Forever After."

The distinguished American actor has made 300 and more films, and had to be "borrowed" from MGM for his appearance in the hilarious comedy "State of the Union," which has one performance in San Jose on Thursday evening, January 9.

Nagel has also become a household word through his Silver Theater of the air and Reader's Digest, a radio feature program. Featured with him in "State of the Union" are Irene Hervey and Henry O'Neill, with Leona Maricle, Forrest Orr and Patrick McVey.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Have you followed the strange, meandering Gerrymandering boundary of the proposed incorporation area? Have you wondered at that bulging, dented, twisted sack that runs out west and south up the San Tomas Creek out to Virginia Avenue two miles west of town? Have you supposed that it goes that way because that group of orchardists want to be incorporated?

No. On the contrary, it goes that way to take in a group of citizens who, through no fault of their own, were not at the meeting of the Board of Supervisors at which the more fortunate had their lands exempted. Look them over, and you will find a few widows, trying to carry man's and woman's work, elderly people, people with sickness in the family, people who were away on business during October last, and whose petitions, arriving after that meeting, were never considered.

I am thinking now of my neighbor, a woman well along in years, who, last summer as always, supervised her harvest while nursing her invalid husband, cooking, washing, doing a man's work in the field. I doubt if she had time to give more than a passing thought to Campbell's excitement over incorporation. If the residents of Campbell wished to incorporate, let them. What was that to her, an orchardist a mile out in the country?

Hers is a thriving orchard—fine fruit much sought after by the packers and canners who build Campbell's properity.

When her crops are in and cash in hand after heavy labor bills paid—money that goes back to the merchants of Campbell in trade—when she has set aside for the continuing winter work, pruning, spraying, irrigating, cultivating, repairing of equipment—furnishing more jobs for the people of the community—and has met her family expense budget, she will be lucky if she has enough left to pay her county taxes.

Now if Campbell incorporates under these boundaries, next year this fine citizen who contributes so much to her community and to the world's food supply will be shocked to receive a second tax bill, which will just about wipe her out. You laugh, perhaps, and say, "Oh, Campbell's taxes won't be that much!" Perhaps they won't be much at first to you who live closely on small holdings, each with steady income assured by business that depends directly or indirectly on the orchards. But consider! A fine orchard has a high valuation, perhaps equal to the holdings of a half dozen city dwellers; yet the net income to the owner is often less than the salary of one of those six townsmen. That is why an orchardist cannot afford the luxury of incorporation. The orchard is community wealth, enabling the town to exist. Its tax would be beyond its power to pay, and out of all proportion to any good its owner would get from incorporation.

The result would be: To meet this added tax my neighbor would have to omit some item of care of her trees. Prhaps she would be unable to spray; a merchant would lose that trade in spray material, several men would lose that spraying job, and next year her fruit would be wormy. Her income would drop and the following year she might lack the funds to irrigate. The water company would lose a valuable customer and more men lose jobs. A few years of this, and the orchard would have deteriorated until it would be abandoned. Thus, fine wealth-producing property becomes a total loss to the community. Perhaps, in the present boom for houses, she will subdivide and sell. The trees would be cut down and houses built.

As the orchards go, Campbell's prosperity goes. With the orchards gone, Campbell would become a ghost city, or a city of pensioners.

These are tendencies which must be combatted everywhere and at the beginning. And in particular, this little Gerrymandering sack of land for which I plead, this little frost-free belt produces the finest fruit in Santa Clara Valley, which means, in the world. Slowly but surely, we are killing the goose that lays our golden eggs.

Fellow citizens, can you take the long-term look? It will be harder to rectify bounderias after incorporation, but mistakes will rankle uncorrected. You have waited long for incorporation, can you wait a little longer until it can be clean of injustice? Consider these things, and consider, too, that now is a poor time to increase government expense for anyone.

May it not be best to vote No on incorporation at this time with these unwise boundaries?

Sincerely,
ALICE JOY KEITH.

Editor's Note:

The writer of the above letter who is employed in San Diego is apparently not aware that the "strange, meandering boundaries" are the result of an effort on the part of the Supervisors to exclude all those who do not wish to be included. Ample time was given all to sign petitions. If incorporation must wait for a more just boundary, no doubt another 30 or 40 years will roll by. It is our opinion that the "long term look" indicates incorporation in order to avoid the very things Mrs. Keith also wishes to avoid.

Dear Editor:

I would strongly advise some of our local tradesmen and also Campbell residents to read an article appearing in The San Jose Mercury Herald dated Dec. 22, under the heading "North Santa Clara Valley Communities Going Industrial." It not only shows how the small communities of Washington, Centerville, Niles, Irvington, Warm Springs and others are progressing, but it proves that Campbell could also progress IF (?) we had an up-to-date organization to function—not for the benefit of any particular group, but the benefit of the community as a whole. The small township of Washington, a town seldom heard about, has gone industrial, and now has more than a dozen industrial plants of various kinds, employing several thousand workers. Washington has no more to offer than Campbell and yet we are standing still with a few plants employing season workers only.

The small community of Warm Springs with a population of only 300 or 400 is not without industries. Its progress i attributed to the Chamber of Commerce with James Nunes, principal of the Elementary School, as president.

In Irvington the school principal is head f the Improvement Club which is active in the development. With a population of 1800 it has a large stove manufacturing plant as its chief industry.

Centerville with a population of 2500 is seriously considering "incorpation," and is progressing rapidly with several industries located there.

Newark with a population of 2200 is the industrial center of the area with many large industries employing hundreds of the local residents.

Niles and Centerville are hives of industry with the Wedgewood Ranges, Leslie Salt Works, Westvacos' Products and many other manufacturing plants.

What is Campbell doing to improve its position or to bring employment to its thousands of citizens? Absolutely nothing. We have a Chamber of Commerce which does not function, in fact, although its membership totals in excess of 50, there is not sufficient attendance at the meetings to form a quorum. Therefore no business can be transacted. Who is to blame for this? Everyone knows it is absolutely essential to have an active Chamber of Commerce to contact firms desirous of locating here, and it is also necessary to provide facilities for industrial plants. Both of these are possible if the people show some interest.

At the next meeting of the Chamber of Commerce new officers will be elected for the coming year. It is the duty of every one of us to make ourselves heard in the selection of these officers, and we must insist that only the most competent shall hold these important positions which will mean progress or stagnation for the area.

Also for real progress vote for Incorporation at the coming election. Support the capable citizens nominated for city government.

Yours sincerely,
GEO. E. ARLIDGE.
